Summary of findings

Overall summary

Princes Court is a care home providing personal and nursing care for up to 75 people aged 65 and over, some of whom were living with a dementia. At the time of the inspection 64 people were living at the service.

We found the following examples of good practice:

- All visitors had their temperature checked upon arrival at the service. Visitors were also asked to complete a brief questionnaire including questions about their current health status.
- Systems were in place to support people to maintain contact with their family. This included the use of electronic tablets and telephones. The service had also created a safe area where relatives could visit, whilst adhering to government guidelines..
- All visitors and staff had access to adequate amounts of appropriate PPE. Staff had received specific COVID-19 training, including the correct use of PPE. Staff had also received specific dementia training regarding how to approach and care for people whilst wearing their PPE.
- The registered manager told us both people and staff underwent regular COVID-19 testing in line with government guidelines.
- Adjustments had been made to the environment, for example the spacing of chairs and tables to support with social distancing. Staff were seen to adhere to social distancing guidance during the inspection.
- Robust cleaning protocols were in place for both daily and more in-depth cleaning. The registered manager carried out regular cleaning audits which allowed for any issues to be identified and rectified.
- The registered manager worked well with external professionals including the local authority commissioning team and infection control nurse.
