Summary of findings

Overall summary

Gracewell of Sutton Coldfield is a care home providing personal and nursing care to 65 people aged 65 some of who are living with dementia. At the time of inspection 62 people lived at the service. The accommodation is organised into three floors, each with its own communal areas. One of the floors is a memory care floor, specialising in providing care to people living with dementia.

We found the following examples of good practice.

Support and activities were offered throughout the home with additional activities provided if a person is self-isolating.

The service can effectively minimise risk of infection between their separate floors. Premade emergency boxes available in case of outbreak, allowing quick access to equipment as required.

Detailed findings

Background to this inspection

We carried out this inspection under Section 60 of the Health and Social Care Act 2008 as part of our regulatory functions. This inspection was planned to check whether the provider is meeting the legal requirements and regulations associated with the Health and Social Care Act 2008.

As part of CQC's response to the COVID-19 pandemic we are looking at how services manage infection control and visiting arrangements. This was a targeted inspection looking at the infection prevention and control measures the provider had in place. We also asked the provider about any staffing pressures the service was experiencing and whether this was having an impact on the service.

This inspection took place on 21 January 2022 and was announced. We gave the service 24 hours' notice of the inspection.
